LEADERSHIP WORKSHOPS

Becoming an effective leader is a journey—one to be experienced and enjoyed.

Presentations and workshops are based on leading theories and best business practices designed to improve leadership skills that create positive results in the workplace.

Presentations are lively, interesting and applicable to the "real" world. New ideas and insight into individual and group roles in the workplace become clearer.

Attendees are encouraged to see themselves as valuable members of their organizations.

Sample of Presentation Topics

- Building Blocks of Leadership
- Basic Principles of Leadership
- Teambuilding Using Myers-Briggs Type Indicator
- Developing a Personal Mission Statement

GROUP FACILITATION

Facilitation provides a process for groups to improve the way problems are identified and solved. Working through this process with an objective facilitator improves decision-making skills and helps groups set and meet objectives.

Facilitation services may be used for strategic planning, retreats, teambuilding, and conflict resolution.

Our Goals as speakers and facilitators are threefold:

1. Enhance productivity, profitability, and workplace satisfaction
2. Develop leadership skills and build effective teams
3. Empower individuals to set goals and determine appropriate roles within groups

What Participants Have Said About Andy Atkinson, President of Leadership Initiatives, Inc.

"Harold Ross said, 'If you can't be funny, be interesting.'
Fortunately, for his audience, Andy Atkinson is both. His excellent presentation skills, a strong belief in the topic, and the breadth of knowledge that comes with experience, made the program something of value."
-M. Spencer

"Andy's motivational talk and delivery were so well received by the membership, they asked that he be scheduled for next year's conference."
-B. Glasgow

"A definite A+ in motivational speaking."
-K. Daughtry
